Good evening, I am very concerned about the lack of a morality code of conduct violation for city employees who want a pension but may have violated certain laws or ethics standards. Should city employees be required to take a lie detector test in order to determine the veracity of their statements or should they be allowed to make arbitrary statements based on their experiences or training? What protection do private citizens have against overzealous employees or ill trained employees or those with an agenda? Please insert a morality clause for city employees and back it up with a lie detector test that is person can request for the city employee and pay for themselves if they are found to be guilty of a misperception? Thank you very much Mary Lucid

Under Kyle Lancaster direction and lack of supervision, seniors at the Carlsbad Senior Center are being shortchanged as far as food quality and programming. There seems to be no answer to the comment cards and complaints and requests by seniors to the park and rec management? Is this a violation of code of conduct and should there be higher standards and training to serve seniors? Is the city putting money and lack of facilities for conferences for city employees ahead of serving Seniors to benefit the city? Is this a violation or dereliction of duty or a deliberate attempt to save money? Why is the city council not overseeing or directing the staff regarding the senior center most respectfully Mary Lucid
